A CHURCH FEAST

Great Outpouring for the "Holy Ghost Celebration."

MISSION GROUNDS CROWDED

Procession of Priests—Dedication of Altar—Offerings—Light and Music—Many Visitors

The celebration of the Feast of the Holy Ghost began Saturday evening and was continued throughout yesterday. The grounds about the Catholic Mission were crowded throughout the celebration with devotees who came to lay their offerings upon the altar where reposed the crown and sceptre.

At 7 o'clock Saturday evening the feast began. The bazaar was thrown open and the offerings which had been collected previously were blessed. The procession of priests and the faithful was formed and the crown and sceptre were taken from the cathedral and placed in the repository which had been built for them. The altar and chancel in this building were beautifully decorated with flowers. In the midst of the decorations numerous burning tapers added to the beauty. From the center of the building a large offering was suspended, representing a grape. It is made of nearly all the fruits and flowers grown here and presented a novel appearance.

There was a continuous stream of people passing through this building and laying their offerings in front of the altar. The table at which the twelve poor were to dine was set ready for the feast. When the several hundred colored electric lights were shown and the band struck up the celebration was on in earnest. The gleaming lights, the moving celebrants clad in white, the sacred altar banked with flowers and illuminated with the twinkling tapers, all made up a scene of beauty.

Early yesterday morning the aims were distributed to the poor, after which High Pontifical Mass was held in the cathedral. The music was rendered by the cathedral choir and the St. Louis band. During the afternoon the Concordia band, Father Valentini leader, gave a concert. At 5 o'clock the procession again formed, the sacred symbols were taken back to the cathedral and the celebration was over.

This feast day originated with Elizabeth, Queen of Portugal, who reigned about 1600 years ago. Moved by gratitude and love for the church, she dedicated her crown and sceptre to the Holy Ghost. From then on the anniversary of this act has been celebrated and has grown to be one of the great festival church days of the Portuguese. Hundreds upon hundreds of residents and sojourners in the islands visited the Mission grounds during the celebration.

IT GOES ON WELL.

Effort of Committees for Queen's Ball.

The Refreshment Committee of the Queen Victoria's Birthday Ball, of Wednesday evening next, met at the Waverley Club on Saturday evening, with Chairman W. W. Wright presiding, and awarded the several contracts for refreshments to the Home Bakery, James Dodd, Macfarlane & Co., Peacock & Co., and Lovejoy & Co. The Home Bakery bid was somewhat higher than that of other caterers, but the several novelties and surprises attaching to it, and the consideration that the corps of waiters would be, for a change, "white" men, and experienced in their duties, carried the point by one vote. In lieu of the formidable array of long tables, and the scramble of hastily snatched morsels, there will be a large number of small tables, around which friendly parties can gather throughout the evening. The large refreshment tent will be entirely in charge of the caterers, and the committee, who will wear badges of blue ribbon.

Captain Berger is making an extraordinarily excellent selection of dance music for the occasion, and the ears of the dancers will be enthused with many old favorites.

This morning the decoration committee commenced the gathering in of flags and evergreens, and tomorrow volunteers are requested to assist in decorating.

Tomorrow evening there will be a conference of such members of the general committee as may find it convenient to attend at the Waverley Club at 7:30, in order to finally arrange upon the details of the conduct of the dance, which promises to be a record one.

The secretary suggests for the guidance of the refreshment committee in its settlement of accounts with the caterer, that when gentlemen escort two or more ladies on the same ticket they will kindly state the number on the ticket thus: "—ladies." There will be no extra charge for "extra" ladies, but the statement will simplify calculations.

Gloria's dance of fire at the Orpheum is marvelous. It is to be repeated tonight.
